

Seize
by Jeremy Luke Hill

There is the moment you come home from the only home you've ever known, dressed in four months of joy and two weeks of counting grief down to this – when you sleep all through your good-byes, your carseat falling into place beneath the dome-light's guilty glow, and I can't help wonder if it's right for me to seize you in my heart.